

Families and Mental Illness

If we can talk about it so can you

Afternoon of April 11, 2010
1:30-4:00 p.m. Offering: $15.00

For too long our culture has carried a stigma and misinformation about mental illness. This day will offer a variety of presentations about mental illness, including personal stories of teens—an often overlooked group who suffer alone. A professional therapist will also speak on triggers and treatments available.

Excellent information for families, educators, pastoral care and those who may be suffering from mental illness.

Come and be supported. No one has to walk alone!

*Presenters: Members of NAMI [National Alliance on Mental Illness]
Dr. Jeanne Jones, Ph.D. psychologist*
